I just love FBI Scambaits – the scammers expect you to be scared and follow all of “their directives”, but I just start insulting them any chance I get. This idiot was confused about the speech story I gave him – I actually left off a dozen or so emails to him, because after the insults or the speech question he stopped responding for a while – I have to reel him back in. I think I worked harder to keep this going then he did in the beginning, but after that, no amount of insults would make him quit. Or would they? The FBI Header and footer shown in the first email appeared in every email.

Can you believe this idiot is putting up with my crap? I love the FBI Baits because the scammers think we are terrified of the FBI as they are, and they get confused when we speak to them like I am. I had one moron tell me I was going to be put in jail for my insults...I replied, "It's not against the law to call an FBI Agent a fuckhead, you fuckhead!"

There may be more updates to this one seeing how I upped the ante (told him I'm sending $1500 instead of $150), but I haven't heard from in a couple days (12/7/2009).
