

Night At The Museum

This moron unfortunately chooses a city that I know really well to tell me where she is from. It is hilarious how she tries to explain her lies and mistakes.

Greg's (10:45 PM): not yet...

linda (10:46 PM): ok

This next part I lead her along down the dark path of deceit. For those of you who don't know, Stan Hywett was the ancestral mansion to the Sieberlings, who with Charles Goodyear, founded the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company. In the late 1960's, the Sieberlings sold the home and it has been preserved, and it is a now a Museum and listed as the 7th largest Historical Home in America. This moron obviously did a search on "homes" in Akron, and decided to use it in her lie, not realizing what it was.

Greg's (10:46 PM): Did you live at Stan Hywett?

linda (10:47 PM): yeah

Greg's (10:47 PM): Really, for how long?

linda (10:48 PM): 5yrs

linda (10:48 PM): why

Greg's (10:49 PM): Just wondering...

Greg's (10:49 PM): what was that like?

linda (10:49 PM): k

Greg's (10:51 PM): What does that mean?

linda (10:52 PM): i mean work all d time

linda (10:53 PM): bord

Greg's (10:53 PM): really, why?

linda (10:53 PM): not my kind of place

Greg's (10:54 PM): How come?

linda (10:54 PM): i just dont no

Greg's (10:55 PM): I was there when I was a kid...(this is true – all schools in the area took field trips to tour it)

linda (10:56 PM): wowwwwww

Greg's (10:56 PM): I know - amazing huh?

linda (10:56 PM): yeah

Greg's (10:58 PM): almost as amazing as you living there...

Greg's (11:00 PM): don't you agree?

linda (11:00 PM): yes i do

Greg's (11:01 PM): I can't believe you thought it was boring living there

linda (11:03 PM): sorry

Greg's (11:04 PM): so did you know that Stan Hywett is a Museum?

linda (11:04 PM): yeah

Greg's (11:04 PM): so how did you live there?

linda (11:05 PM): what do you mean

Greg's (11:05 PM): You said you lived there - it is a Museum - no one lives there...

linda (11:06 PM): i only said did you no the place

Greg's (11:06 PM): You just said you lived there...

linda (11:07 PM): k

Greg's (11:07 PM): didn't know it was a Museum, did you?

Greg's (11:09 PM): you just said you lived there it you thought it was boring...

Greg's (11:09 PM): lol

linda (11:09 PM): my mistake (lol – she tries to gloss over it like it is no big deal)

Greg's (11:09 PM): yeah, I would say...lol

linda (11:09 PM): ok

linda (11:09 PM): do you party

Greg's (11:10 PM): no...

Greg's (11:14 PM): And you don't know where Tallmadge is and think that you lived in a Museum?

linda (11:14 PM): no

Greg's (11:15 PM): Tell the truth or this conversation is over...

Greg's (11:22 PM): did your server type that?

linda (11:24 PM): what

Greg's (11:24 PM): try telling the truth or don't contact me again...

I know my fellow scambaiters would be pissed at me about being so critical of the fool and telling "her" of her mistakes. You don't want to educate a scammer and tell them what they are doing wrong, but how could I possibly help this? LOL – Plus, any other person would not know what was correct anyways, unless they were from this immediate area and knew what Stan Hywett was.
