

Oil And Cocoa Don't Mix

You will see that this is a fitting title to this scambait. The longer I keep doing this (scambaiting), I see more of the stupidity of these people and sometimes it completely surprises me! Anyone with one-half a brain would have logged off long before this idiot did. When his lies were being uncovered, he didn't even let them get cold until his next one would come out! In a span of 3 minutes he was an oilman (Yusufu), to Maria, and then her dead husband, and then Maria's son. Three minutes??? And a little later, he says he's none of the above and just stumbled onto an open email account!

These filthy scammers have such egos that they would rather waste time at an internet café with me, arguing who is right, then just moving on. He had to know that there was no chance scamming me after he fouled up the scam by mixing up the names. And yet he chatted with me for close to two hours, trying to insist it wasn't him. What a dipshit! This one might be the dumbest scammer on Earth...
