

Begging Fool

This chat scambait is posted already in progress. The reason is that I didn't save the chat transcripts, because this fool would get booted or logged off every few minutes, so I had a ton of intermittent chats with this whore. I figured this was going nowhere and it was frustrating, so I didn't bother saving the chats, but it ended up being pretty funny at the end. I basically tell her that I know that she is only talking to me so she can beg money from me and that I will NEVER send her money. She "proves" her intentions by continuing to chat with me, only to beg for money at the end. How stupid do you have to be to continue the scam when I tell "her" I will never give her money? This transcript starts after I get pissed because she keeps getting logged off so I just call her a bunch of names, a liar, and a scammer. This is her response...

Hilarious – I figure I will never hear from her again seeing that I stated 5 times that I will never give her money. I was wrong...I accidently deleted the first part of the next chat – it was short because she got logged off, but as you can see by the next session when she logs back in, she asks me for money. It seems she develops a medical condition a desperately needs money and has no one to ask but me...
