

This was a short and boring scambait – the only reason I included it was to show how easy it was to get a scammer back on the hook after you dismiss them. I have other more interesting baits going on, so I gave this one his walking papers. A month after I told him I wasn't interested, I sent him an email asking if he got the MoneyGram transfer. Bait was back on as he scrambled to figure out where I sent the money and if he could get a hold of it.

What does "Please be serious" mean on your email? You don't think I am serious? I sent the money to the coordinates that your assistant gave me – I did exactly like I was told. I checked MoneyGram and they said the money was picked up already. Did you get it? I don't appreciate you insinuating that I am joking – I sent $4800.00 like your assistant told me to. Please get back to me when you find out what happened to my money. This is bullshit, and you better find my money!

Thomas

Attn:

With regards to your mail i had asked my assistance (Barr. Chukwukamadu Daneil) concerning this problem and i had gone to details and found out that he knows nothing concerning giving you any outline.

May i at this juncture to clear some certianty, i am a legal man which is not meant to be insulted nor accused,at the first place i sent you the details and conditions to procure the certificate on your favour which you said i should forget, now you are telling me that you sent $4800 to a coordinates that my assistance told you, what you should have done is when you got the mail you should have contacted me first for verification. you sent your money to another person and now you are telling to find out what happen to your money, you email them and ask them what happen to your money because you do not send the details of payment to me so i know nothing what you are talking about there is no evidence.

However, if really you sent the money what you have to do now is to email to me the payment details so i will file it to the Money Gram office here for verification and details of the individual that picked up the money so i will report the issue to the police for investigation that is the only way i can help you.Thanks

Barr. George

Listen, you freaking brain-dead moron;

I already contacted the authorities concerning your criminal assistant who stole my money. Were you in on it? If I don't get my money back, there will be hell to pay. I'll call the FBI, the CIA, Interpol, the NAACP, NAMBLA, and whoever else it takes to get my freaking money back! $4800.00 is a lot of money – that's almost a week's pay for me, and I don't like to lose money like that. Next time you email me you better have some good news or I'll send your information to the NCAA as well as the Rainbow Coalition!

Thomas

I think I overdid it a bit, because he never emailed me back. It may have been the threats – after all, I wouldn't want NAMBLA coming after me!
