

Greedy Mac

I love when these stupid begging fools will say anything they can just to get you into the game. Read his first letter carefully – he contacts a random stranger to give away his money to because his selfish, greedy family kept the money for themselves, but when I say that’s what I want to do, he has no problem with it. Then two emails later, he tells me he has no family to give the money, that’s why he chose me. Does anyone wonder why these people cannot get a real job?

Respect,

I sent you the correspondence below and I presume it went into your bulk message or your isp had issues, With utmost sincerity I Thomas James, A British & Portuguese national is writing this email to you,I was browsing and I saw your e-mail, So i decided to write you if your e-mail is real, I have been diagnosed with esophageal cancer. It has defiled all forms of medical treatment, and right now I have only about a few months to live. I am very rich, but was never generous; I have given most of my assets to my immediate family members. I have decided to give alms to charity organizations. I cannot do this myself anymore because of my health. I once asked members of my family to give some money to charity organizations, they refused and kept the money. I have a huge cash deposit of $5.5M (Five Million Five Hundred Thousand Dollars Only with a security company in Europe. I will want you to help me collect this deposit and dispatch it to charity organizations. You will take out 30% of these funds for your assistance and give the remaining to charity organization, Churches, Motherless babies home and physical challenge people. I will like you to acknowledge the receipt of this e-mail as soon as possible and treats with absolute confidentiality and sincerity and i will send you pictures of me before and after the disease.

Regards,

Thomas James

I am not interested in helping any charities. If I were able to keep all of the money myself for my own personal use, that would be different, but I do not wish to help any stupid motherless babies or gimps or churches.

Thanks anyways,

Mac

If you so wish to keep it to yourself No problem, so would that automatically make you interested?

So in your email you didn’t want to give it to your family because they wanted to keep it for themselves instead of using it for charity, but it is okay if I just keep it for myself and not use it for charity?

Is that right?

Mac

Mac

I have no family for now, am all by myself now, family r doomed for good, please Mac if you ready to claim the trunks let me know so we proceed,i have nothing to loose in what so ever you choose to do,i just want to bless someone's life as i have few days to live.

Thomas

Did you read your first email when you wrote it? First you say your family wants to keep the money for themselves and now you say you have no family? Are you confused? You may want to re-read your email to see what you wrote.

Mac

Mac

I said so and mind you this was a note written long before now,my family are all gone for good am all by myself here okay,its not a do or die affair you claim the trunks,as you really sounding rude and its not good for my health.

Thomas

Sounding rude is not good for his health? At least he admitted that his scam email was pre-written long before this.

Did you get my email? I asked where you were from.

Mac

Sir

My first email and last explained everything about me,please if you are serious call the diplomat Neil Robert who is in Newyork USA with the trunks,i sent you his details already.

Thomas James

LOL – so you sent trunks full of money to New York before you even knew where the random stranger that you contacted from the internet was? That is interesting. You never gave any contact information for any diplomat, and you never once said where you currently are now.

Mac

Diplomatic Corps, New York

Attn: Neil Roberts

Tel: 646-257-3508

Call him,tell him you calling regarding your trunks with him and you got his number from me Thomas James

I live minutes away from JFK Airport. I will just meet him there. Lucky for you that when you sent a Diplomat with your fictitious trunks to some random place that the very person that you would contact would be five minutes away from the airport. Where should I meet this so-called Diplomat? What gate is he at? Let me know so I can go and meet him face to face, or mono-a-mugu, if you prefer.

Mac

If you not serious you trunk boxes will be confiscated by custom officials

LOL – that is so funny. So you think customs can confiscate personal property because I didn't contact them by phone and want to meet them in person instead? Are you getting your modalities confused?

Mac

No more responses. I think he finally figured out I was playing with him.
